

Only 10% of U.S. lawyers want to work from home full-time. Most want to return to the workplace, but with critical changes.

DO YOU PREFER TO GO BACK TO THE OFFICE OR CONTINUE TO WORK FROM HOME?

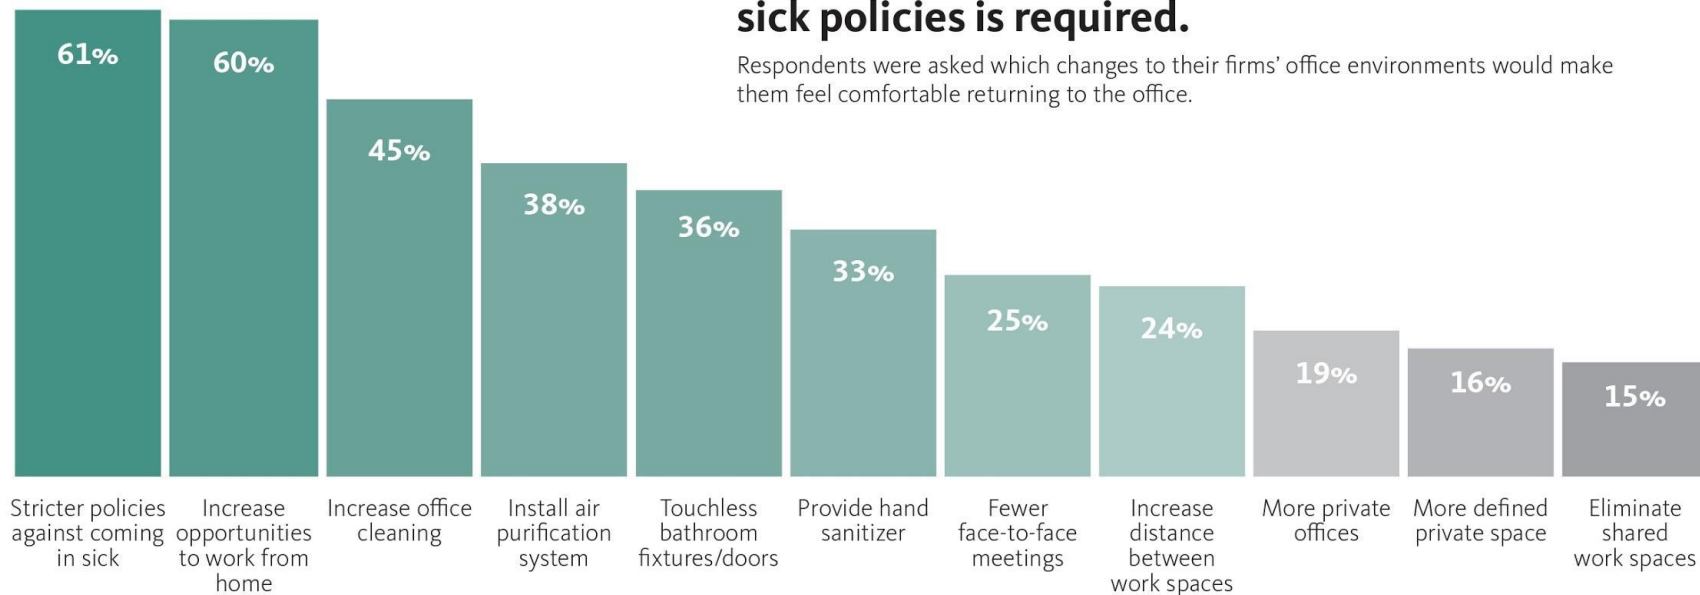

The top reason lawyers want to come to the office: the people.

Respondents were asked to rank what they believe to be the most important reason(s) for coming into the office.

For lawyers to feel comfortable coming back to the office, a combination of more cleaning and stricter sick policies is required.

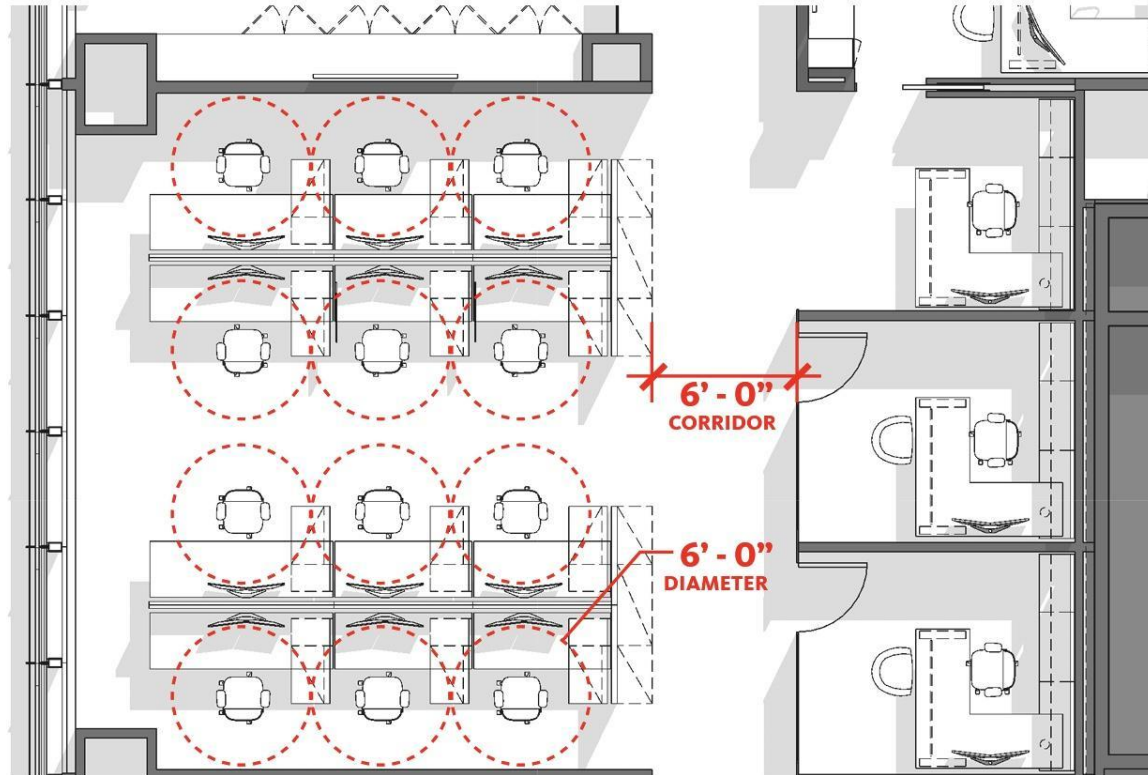

Respondents were asked which changes to their firms' office environments would make them feel comfortable returning to the office.

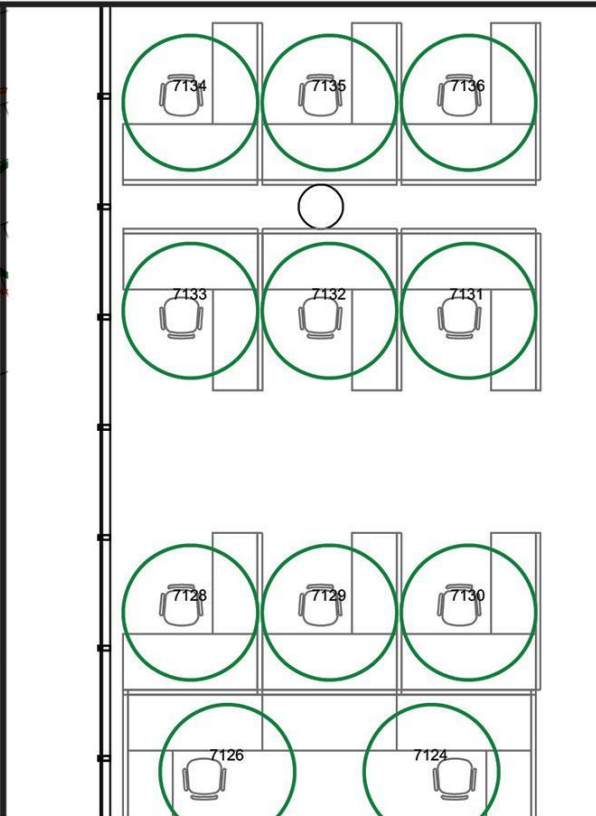

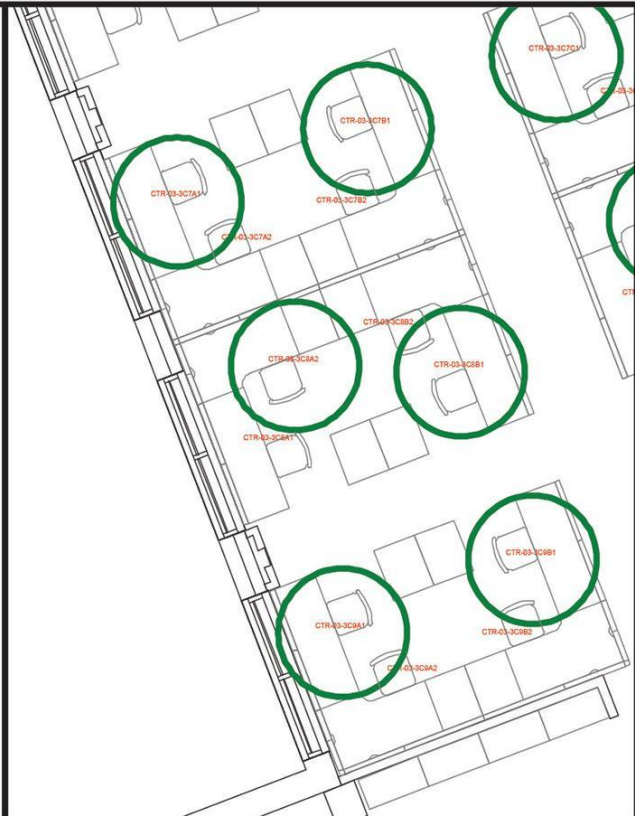

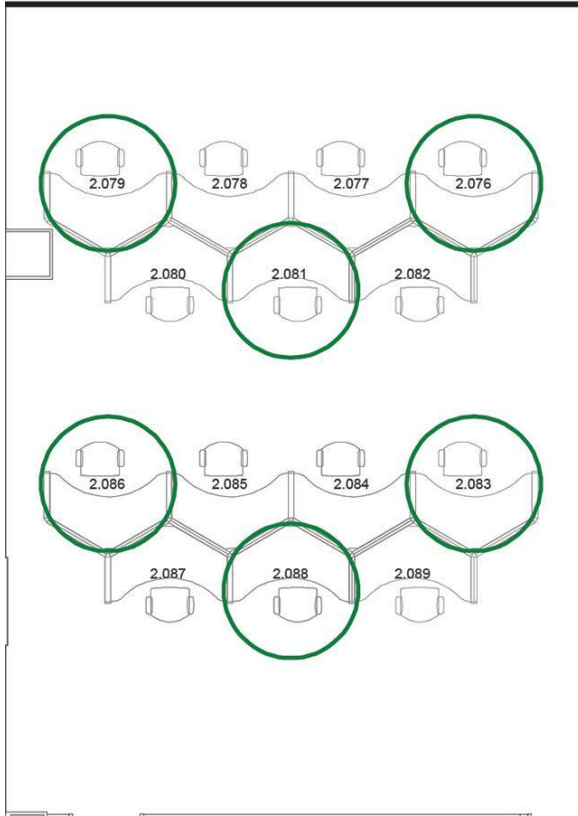

COCKPIT OFFICE & OPEN PLAN

DENSIFICATION TAKES A HIATUS

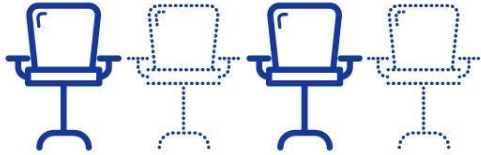

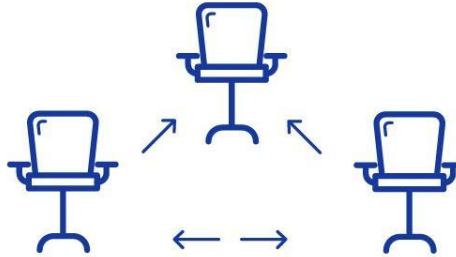

VERTICAL SEPARATION

Consider adding low panels or separations between people. Glass stacker panels provide an extra layer of protection between people while still letting in light.

COLLABORATION AT A DISTANCE

Remove excess chairs in conference rooms with more than 10 seats.

Spread out collaboration seating, so people are spaced further apart.

Encourage people to collaborate virtually whenever possible.

PLANNING STUDIES

TOOLS + SERVICES

LEGEND

- A Team A Seats
- B Team B Seats
- No Impact
- Shared Seat
- ## Meeting Capacity
- High Touch Areas
- S Sanitizer Station
- UP Up or Down Stairs
- D Door on Hold Open
- Circulation Path

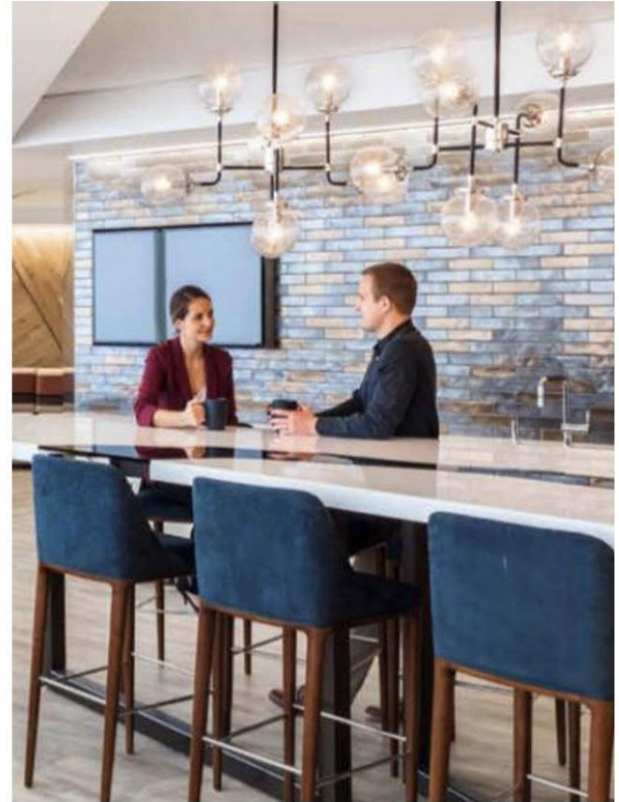

ENHANCED AV

VALUE IN COMING TOGETHER

WORKPLACE STILL MATTERS

Building community, reinforcing our organization's culture, and strengthening relationships with colleagues is still what the workplace is all about when we return.

Confidential Client | Washington, DC