1145 – 1300 SESSION TWO

The three gateways to successful transaction execution

Merger control, which used to be a relatively predictable area of competition law, is now undergoing major developments all around the world including in Europe. The days of a 'light touch' approach are clearly over: competition authorities globally and in Europe are gaining increasingly stronger powers to review an ever wider range of transactions (including new approaches to jurisdiction and the reversal of the burden of proof). At the same time, for large global deals in a growing number of industry sectors, the number of foreign direct investment approvals required can now outnumber the necessary merger approvals. Add to this the new EU Foreign Subsidies Regulation mandatory notification system coming into effect on 12 October 2023 for deals involving firms benefitting from state aid. The result is the need for tripartite regulatory transaction planning. How can companies navigate these complex waters?

1500 – 1630 SESSION THREE

Unilateral conduct

The law on unilateral conduct (abuse of dominance) has been generating headlines and is in a state of flux in the EU, US and other jurisdictions around the world. This panel will discuss recent cases, important court judgments and developments in enforcement trends. We will discuss the European Commission's amendments to its enforcement guidance paper and call for evidence on exclusionary abuses. Is the 'effects-based' approach being abandoned in favour of a more formalistic or ex ante regulatory approach? The panel will also discuss the relevant legal tests coming out of the case law, how economics plays a role in the analysis and practical tips for how companies can assess their conduct to ensure compliance.

1700 – 1815 SESSION FOUR

The new frontier of competition law and labour markets

Cost of living concerns have helped fuel populist demand for dramatic reform of competition law. A focus on inequality has stirred a debate in the competition community on anticompetitive concerns in labour markets. This session will consider the proposition that competition authorities should use their enforcement powers to prevent the creation of employer monopsony power, for example, through mergers or no-poaching agreements, and the abuse of that power.

1000 – 1130 SESSION FIVE

The role of competition law and policy in controlling artificial intelligence

The interplay between artificial intelligence (AI) and competition law has been on the agenda of competition conferences for years. The recent launch of generative AI tools, such as ChatGPT and Google Bard, has now reignited the debate from various angles, including the role of competition authorities in regulating the world of generative AI, the speed and direction of the development of markets as well as the potential antitrust implications of consolidated AI power. The panel – consisting of agency representatives, academics and practitioners – will delve into the challenges and opportunities of balancing innovation with market fairness, analysing the potential effects of AI on other markets, consumer choices and prices, data privacy concerns, and the entry barriers facing new companies in the AI industry.

*The organisers may at any time, with or without giving notice, in their absolute discretion and without giving any reason, cancel or postpone the Conference, change its venue or any of the other published particulars, or withdraw any invitation to attend. If any deductions or withholdings are required by law to be made from any fees payable to us by you under the terms contained in this 'Information' section you shall pay such sum as will, after the deduction or withholding has been made, leave us with the same amount as we would have been entitled to receive in the absence of any such requirement to make a deduction or withholding.

Conference sell-outs

The IBA places its conferences in venues of a suitable size for each event; however, there are times when our conferences may sell out. Should this happen, prospective delegates will be informed and a waiting list will operate. The waiting list will function on a 'first come, first served' basis, subject to receiving registered delegate cancellations. The waiting list for a conference will close once it has reached ten per cent of the conference venue capacity, as it is very unlikely a place will become available. The IBA will not be liable for any travel or accommodation expenses incurred by an individual who travels to a conference without a confirmed place at the event.

Provided you have cancelled your registration to attend an IBA Conference in accordance with the terms of the 'cancellation of registration' clause included in the 'Information' section of the relevant Conference programme, you must then confirm to us in writing at the IBA office as soon as possible, but in no event later than one year (12 calendar months) from the date of any such Conference, all necessary details to enable any reimbursement owed to you to be paid. We regret that no refunds will be made after the date that is one year (12 calendar months) after the date of the relevant Conference.

Travel arrangements and visas

Participants are responsible for making their own travel arrangements. It is recommended that you check your visa requirements with your local embassy or consulate. We are unable to dispatch visa invitation letters to support your visa application prior to receipt of your registration form and full payment of registration fees.

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations, law firms and law societies.

The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 80,000 individual lawyers and more than 190 bar associations and law societies spanning over 170 countries.

Inspired by the vision of the United Nations, the IBA was founded in the same spirit, just before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed in 1948.

The IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to date information, enabling them to better represent their clients' interests.

Through its various committees, fora and task forces, the IBA facilitates the exchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of law around the globe.

IBA Antitrust Section

The Antitrust Section provides an international forum for thought leadership with respect to antitrust law developments and the profession through submissions to competition agencies, training programs/missions, developing the law through our conferences, publications, and interaction with antitrust enforcement authorities and the profession.

In addition, there is a strong commitment to bring together international practitioners to facilitate closer working relationships. The Section is increasingly relied upon by government officials and members of the private sector for its expertise and practical input into antitrust developments, including through its Working Group submissions.
